Big Peach Yield—Minors in City Court—Benjamin Miller Arrested in Webster for Larceny—Entry Day at Woodstock Fair.

Miss Bernice Turner, who was graduated from Boston university in June, and has since been admitted as a member of the Massachusetts bar, is visiting her father, Rev. T. A. Turner, of East Woodstock.

Attorney S. B. Harvey of Williamantic, one of the ablest lawyers in this part of Connecticut, has been retained as counsel for Attorney Frank R. Howard, now held at Brooklyn jail, it was said here Monday.

Peach Yield 2000 Baskets. Moses Aldrich, who has a place in the eastern part of the town, had a fine crop of peaches this year, of about 2,000 baskets of good quality fruit.

Fine Apples at Westland Farms. E. K. Brown, the expert fruit grower of Pomfret, is not exhibiting at county fairs this year, though he has as fine a crop of apples as he has ever grown.

Chicken Thief Escapes from Jail. Peter Wells, Woodstock, who was sent to jail some time since for stealing chickens from the coops of Rev. C. P. Redard, has escaped from the institution, the second local prisoner to get away from the jail within a month.

More frosts were reported Monday morning, when at an early hour the temperature was only a few degrees above the freezing point. The frosts caused no damage of importance.

Charles Rowe, who has been away from Putnam for three months on vacation trip to Italy, has returned here, reporting a delightful experience.

Several Putnam firms had representatives at Woodstock Monday, arranging exhibits at the Woodstock fair, Monday being entry day.

CITY COURT CASES. Three Minors Before Judge Fuller—Two Placed on Probation.

Five prisoners were before Judge L. H. Fuller in the city court Monday.

Three of the group were minors—Henry Tetlow, 14, Edward King, 15, Arthur Authier, 17. Authier was charged with resisting an officer and was fined $5. The other two young charges with taking some baseballs from an African dodger's stand and with breach of the peace, were placed, after their cases had been continued, in the care of the probation officer.

Edward King, 27, no relation of the younger man of the same name, was fined $5 for intoxication. John Fitzgerald, 28, was fined $10 for intoxication, $20 for resisting an officer, and costs amounting to $8.00, a total of $38.00.

ARRESTED IN WEBSTER. Benjamin Miller, 19, Held for Larceny of Horse and Rig.

A telephone message from Maurice P. Clare, chief of police at Webster, brought information to local officials that Benjamin Miller, 19, who was arrested by his employer here about a month ago and whose case had been continued in the local city court, he being placed in the care of the probation officer, had been arrested and taken to Webster, charged with larceny of a horse and rig owned by J. C. Miron of Webster and New York.

Miller, with another young man, Alfred Morel, 21, were arrested by Deputy Sheriff E. P. Heath in East Douglas. The rig that the police claim was held up in East Douglas was the top buggy owned by Miron, who is an opera singer, but the horse was one owned by C. D. Holbrook, Oxford.

A newspaper article telling of the theft of a horse and rig at Webster led to a suspicion that the East Douglas rig was the one wanted. The Miron horse was traded for another one, the property of C. D. Holbrook, Oxford, by Miller. It is claimed that the trade was even, no money changing hands.

At the police station in Webster Miller gave his address as Williamantic and said he had been in the city for some time. Chief Clare sent the information about Miller here because the local probation officer, A. W. Bowen, was looking up the young man, who had broken his probation here and had gone, it was correctly presumed, to Webster, where he became involved in new trouble before he could be apprehended and returned to Putnam.

WOODSTOCK FAIR. Monday Was Entry Day—Connecticut College at Storrs Among Others Exhibiting.

Monday was entry day at Woodstock for the annual exhibition of the Agricultural society. All day the exhibition buildings were hives of industry, a scene of hustle and bustle to get the exhibits in place for today, the first of the big days of the fair.

There will not be many changes of importance in the exhibition this year. The general arrangement of the displays will be much the same as in past years. Monday afternoon, however, it became evident that the fruit display this year will be one of the best ever. There will be a greater number of exhibitors of apples than ever before and the fruit is of such fine quality as to command admiration.

One of the fruit exhibits is by the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs, through the pomological department, and is especially fine. The college will also show a number of horses at the fair this year.

Cattle entries and poultry entries are heavy this year, assuring that the fair will live up to its reputation of being one of the good old-fashioned sort. Familiar names are on cards attached to exhibits in the women's department at the fair, this department having a large display of fancy needlework, cake, pastry, canned fruits, jellies, etc., etc.

It was cold at the fair grounds early Monday evening, but many were present. There are not at the grounds all that they might be up and ready early this morning for the hustling of today.

GOES TO CHESHIRE. Arthur J. Edwards Taken to New State Reformatory.

Arthur J. Edwards, who was sentenced here a few days ago in the superior court by Judge Marcus H. Holcomb, has been taken to the new state reformatory at Cheshire by Sheriff P. B. Sibley. Edwards pleaded guilty to being of the good old-fashioned sort.

Sibley is carrying out a check made in favor of Edwards and for a small amount. The young man is the first prisoner to be sent from Windham county to the Cheshire institution and in taking him there to serve his sentence Sheriff Sibley made his first visit to the place.

There are now at the great all that they might be up and ready early this morning for the hustling of today.

There are 450 acres of land at the Cheshire institution and this is to be worked by the prisoners next season, when a sufficient quantity of vegetables will be raised to meet the needs of the plant. Other crops, as needed at the reformatory, will be grown. Prisoners now there are engaged in doing graduate work, and are on duty about the grounds, the rules and discipline being nearly as rigid as at the state prison, but without many of the objectionable features to be found at that place. Sheriff Sibley was much impressed with the institution.

FOUND DEAD IN ROOMS OF SEASIDE CLUB. Silas Stein Passed Away in New London of Cerebral Hemorrhage.

Silas Stein was found dead Monday afternoon in the rooms of the Seaside club in Bank street, New London. He had been dead several hours and Medical Examiner Heyer held that he expired from cerebral hemorrhage.

Stein came into the place, which is conducted by Adolph Donier and William Manice, Sunday night and lay down on a couch. Monday morning when the club was closed Stein was left asleep on the couch, the presumption being that when he awoke he would walk out and leave the door fastened by a spring lock.

Donier went into the club rooms in the afternoon and found Stein still on the couch. He bent over the man to arouse him and noticed there was no sign of breathing. The police were called and notified Dr. Heyer.

Stein was about 50 years old and a watchman by occupation. A daughter survives him.
